Dear Marc Zuckerberg!

I heard about your prime project to spend money for education. I think that is not easy. Of course the world or politics is corrupt and egoistic.

And other way any friend I told about your education project, and that I intended to you to push and support my learning Game 'WAU WAU' replied - that this was only a promotion gag and would never help me at all. So what? I am so naive to believe that you will be serious to do what I read in the news. That's why I write to you in the hope you will help me and my famous Game 'WAU WAU' and promote it world wide.

If you like the successful game 'Scrabble', you will love 'WAU WAU'. For me, Scrabble is too stiff and not really a learning game. My 'WAU WAU' (WAU German comes from English WOWE) is a very flexible, innovative, funny and interactive lettergame for children from the age of 6 - 99 years.

Also I worked with a German Highschool with very good results. I even attended the greatest Toy Fair of the world in Nuremberg in Bavaria for ten years. But with only some smaller sales, the great commercial success did not arrive of course. I am only a little publisher, a local known artist with no big lobby behind. But I am sure with a great sponsor like you dear Marc I will find my comeback on any toy fair of the world, in every country and each language, in any school on earth. We will present it as a sustainable giveaway turning any pupil into a word juggler and letteracrobat.

By the way, have you heard that Mattel changed the rules of Scrabble a bit, so it turned into Joolo. Joolo comes a bit closer to 'WAU WAU', but not half the way how 'WAU WAU' makes real education.

So I ask you to give me enough money and I travel around the world as a 'WAU WAU' diplomat respective ambassador and I would tell everybody who pays for our promotion tour. I also promise you 'any Cent would be transparent'.

I would like further to inform you about my education offensive if you like too. Please answer me quickly, of course time is rare and the world of games needs 'WAU WAU'.

So I send you the best wishes what a man can wish-yours

Thomas Fitzthum

More details of 'WAU WAU' you will find on my Website <http://thomasfitzthum.de/wauwau> (sorry, only in German)
